TWO PICTURES.

BY GEORGE BIRDSEYE.

The latest photograph of her—
A picture true!
'Tis prettier than the others were,
But she is, too.
A perfect limner in the sun;
'Tis done with care,
As though he loved to work upon
Her features fair:
The cunning curves of cheek and chin,
The broad, brave brow;
The tender mouth, cut pearls within—
I see them now.
The silken mass of nut-brown hair,
Its waves are curls,
A glory how they'd long to wear—
Those other girls!
Her eyes seem to look straight in mine,
So frank and free;
Yet something I can't well divine
They say to me.
Ah! photographs, however good,
Don't satisfy;
They make no meaning understood
When speaks the eye.
They cannot give the cheek its glow,
The lips its red,
The arrow-smile nor mischief bow
From which it sped.
That mystic charm that love bestows
Is absent quite,
The radiance that around her throws
Celestial light.
I see the lips, the lily throat,
But where the song,
The glorious voice, the heavenly note
That there belong?
I hold within my inmost heart
Her image fair;
Can best of photographic art
With that compare?
There I can call a color to
Her rounded cheek,
Can see her eyes' soft velvet dew
And hear them speak.
I see her lips, and I can hear—
Then am I blest—
The bird of song I hold so dear
Sing in its nest.
Yet this fair photo to forsake
I should be loth.
What a composite they will make!
I'll keep them both.

WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE.

W. H. McCOY.

In May, 1900, I left Greenwich Point on the six masted schooner, John Wilkes. Captain Harry Carson, bound, Hiago; cargo, oil. My father was part owner, and I was guest, passenger and invalid combined.

After being out about six weeks, we were near the Eastern coast of Brazil, off Rio. That day, as usual, the captain and mate had taken the noon observation, and both went below to calculate their day's work.

The gangway to the cabin ran athwart ships. Beyond a small square landing, and opposite this gangway, were two doors, close to each other. One opened aft into the cabin, the other, facing the steps, into a stateroom.

In the forward part of this stateroom was a desk, so that anyone sitting at it and looking over his shoulder could see into the cabin beyond.

Absorbed in his calculations, which did not result as he expected, varying considerably from the dead reckoning, the mate had not noticed the captain's movements.

When the calculations were completed, the mate called out, without looking around: "Here's our latitude and longitude as I make it, sir. Is it right? What is yours?"

Receiving no reply, he repeated his question, glancing over his shoulder and seeing, as he thought, the captain, busy at the desk, writing on his slate.

Receiving no answer he arose and faced the cabin door. The figure he had mistaken for the captain raised his head and disclosed to the astonished mate the features of an absolute stranger.

The mate was no coward, but as he met the fixed gaze looking directly at him in grave silence, and felt assured it was no one whom he had ever seen before, it was too much for him, and, instead of stopping to question the seeming intruder, he rushed upon the deck with such evident confusion and alarm that it instantly attracted the attention of the captain, who was then standing by the wheel.

"What's the matter, Mr. Boynton, anything wrong?" the latter said.

"The matter, sir? Who's that man at your desk?"

"No one that I know of."

"But there is, sir; there's a stranger there."

"A stranger? Who?" you must be dreaming. It was the steward or the second mate, I suppose, who would venture down without orders."

"But, sir, he was sitting in your armchair, fronting the door, writing on your slate. Then he looked up full in my face, and if I ever saw a man plainly and distinctly in this world, I saw him."

"Him? Whom?"

"God knows, sir; I don't. I saw a man, and a man I had never seen in my life before."

"You must be going crazy, Mr. Boynton! A stranger, and we nearly six weeks out!"

"I know, sir; but then I saw him."

"Go down and see who it is."

Boynton hesitated.

"I never was a believer in ghosts," he

"Have you been trifling with me, sir?" added the captain, in a stern manner.

"On my word, as a man and sailor, sir," replied Boynton, "I know no more of this matter than you do. I have told you the exact truth."

The captain sat down at his desk, the slate before him, in deep thought. At last, turning the slate over and pushing it toward Boynton, he said:

"Write down four words, 'Steer to the Nor'west.'"

The mate complied, and the captain, after closely comparing the two handwritings, you see the writing. There must be something in it."

"Well, it would seem so. We have the wind free, and I have a great mind to keep her away and see what will come of it."

"I surely would, sir, if I were in your place. It's only a few hours lost, at the worst."

"Well, go on deck and give the course nor'west. And, Mr. Boynton," he added, as the mate rose to go, "have a lookout aloft, and let it be a hand you can depend on."

His orders were obeyed.

About three o'clock the lookout reported that he was right. Not only the face but the person and the dress exactly corresponded.

After the exhausted crew had been cared for, and the John Wilkes on her course again, the mate called the captain aside and said:

"It seems that was not a ghost I saw today, sir; the man's alive."

"What do you mean? Who's alive?"

"Why, sir, one of the crew we just saved is the man I saw writing on your slate at noon. I would swear to it in a court of justice."

"Upon my word, Mr. Boynton," replied the captain, "this gets more and more singular. Let's go and see this man."

They found him in conversation with the captain of the rescued crew. They both came forward, and expressed, in the warmest terms, their gratitude for deliverance.

Captain Carson told them that he had but done his duty and what others would have done under similar circumstances, and asked them both to step down to the cabin. Then, turning to the man, he said:

"I hope, sir, you'll not think I am trifling with you; but I'd be obliged if you'd write a few words on this slate." And he handed the slate to him, with the blank side uppermost.

"I will do anything you ask," the man returned; "but what shall I write?"

"A few words are all I want. Suppose you write, 'steer to the nor'west!'"

The man, evidently puzzled as to the motive for such a request, complied, however, with a smile. The captain took up the slate and examined it closely; then, stepping aside so as to conceal it from the man, he turned it over and gave it to him again with the other side turned up.

"You say that is your handwriting?" he asked.

"I need not say so," rejoined the other, looking at it, "for you saw me write it."

"And this?" said the captain, turning the slate over.

The man looked first at one writing then at the other quite confounded.

"What is the meaning of this?" he finally gasped. "I only wrote one of these. Who wrote the other?"

"That's more than I can tell you, sir. My mate here says you wrote it, sitting at this desk, at noon today."

The captain of the wreck and his first mate looked at each other, exchanging glances of intelligence and surprise, and the former asked the latter:

"Did you dream that you wrote on this slate?"

"No, sir, not that I remember."

"You speak of dreaming," said the captain of the John Wilkes. "What was this gentleman doing about noon today?"

"Captain," rejoined the other, "the whole thing is most mysterious and extraordinary, and I had intended speaking to you about it as soon as we got a little quiet. This gentleman"—pointing to the mate—"being much exhausted, fell into a heavy sleep, or what would seem such, about, or some time before, noon. After an hour or more he awoke and said to me: 'Captain, we'll be rescued this very day.' When I asked him what reason he had for saying so, he replied that he had dreamed that he was on board a six masted schooner, and that she was coming to our rescue. He described her appearance and rig, and, too our utter astonishment, when your vessel hove in sight, she corresponded exactly to his description of her. We had not put much faith in what he said; yet, still we hoped there might be something in it, for drowning men, you know, will catch at straws. As it transpired, I cannot doubt that it was all arranged, in some incomprehensible way, by an overruling Providence, so that we might be saved. To Him we must give all thanks for His goodness to us. There isn't a doubt that the writing on the slate, let it come there as it may, saved all our lives."

"I was steering at the time considerably south of west," Captain Carson then said, "and I altered my course nor'west, and had a lookout aloft, to see what would come of it. But you say," he added, turning to the rescued mate, "that you didn't dream that you wrote on the slate?"

"No, sir. I have no recollection whatever of doing so. I got the impression that the schooner I saw in my dream was coming to rescue us, but how that impression came I cannot tell. There's another strange thing about it," he added. "Everything here on board seems to be familiar to me, yet I am very sure I never before was on your vessel. It's a puzzle to me. What did your mate see?"

Captain Carson and Mate Boynton then explained the remarkable circumstance leading to the change of course made by the John Wilkes.

We landed the crew of the Imogene at Rio, and then continued on our way to Hiago, ever speculating as to the mystical tie binding the captain of the John Wilkes to rescue the crew of the Imogene, and the mystery ever growing deeper, and yet perhaps someone else may be able to solve it, as none of us were.

Jessie Busley

murmured, "but if the truth must be told, sir, I'd rather not face it alone."

"Come, come, man. Go down at once, and don't make a fool of yourself before the crew."

"I hope you've always found me willing to do what's reasonable," Boynton replied, changing color, "but if it's all the same to you, sir, I'd rather we both go down together."

The captain then made for the gangway, and the mate followed him.

Nobody in the cabin! They examined the staterooms. Not a soul to be found!

"Well, Mr. Boynton," the captain began, "didn't I say you had been dreaming?"

"It's all very well to say so, sir, but if I didn't see that man writing on your slate, may I never see my home and family again!"

"Ah! writing on the slate! Then it should be there still." And the captain took it up.

"By God!" he exclaimed, "here's something, sure enough! Is that your writing, Mr. Boynton?"

The mate took the slate, and there, in plain, legible characters, stood the words, "Steer to the Nor'west."

said: "Mr. Boynton, tell the second mate to come down here."

The latter came, and at the captain's request he also wrote the same words. So did the steward. So, in succession, did every man of the crew who could write at all. But not one of the hands resembled, in any degree, the mysterious writing.

When the last of the crew had retired, the captain again thought deeply.

"Could anyone have been stowed away?" at last he muttered.

"The ship must be searched, and if I don't find the fellow he must be a good one at hide and seek. Order up all hands!"

Every corner of the vessel, from stem to stern, was thoroughly searched, and that with all the eagerness of excited curiosity, for the report had gone forth that a stranger had showed himself aboard; but not a living soul beyond the crew and officers was found. Returning to the cabin after the fruitless search, the captain said:

"Mr. Boynton, what in the devil do you make of all this?"

"Can't tell, sir. I saw the man write; what looked to be a dismantled ship dead ahead, and, as they approached it, the captain's glass disclosed the fact that there were a good many human beings on it. Shortly after they hove to, and sent out the boats to the relief of the sufferers."

It proved to be the brig Imogene, bound from Boston to Rio; she was blown out of her course, the fore and mizzen mast carried away, and was floundering in the sea a helpless mass, and had passed several weeks in a most critical situation. She was stove, her decks swept, a mere wreck; provisions and almost all her water were gone. Her crew had lost all hope of being saved, and their gratitude for the unexpected rescue was proportionately great.

As one of the men who had been brought away in the third boat had left the ship's side, the mate, catching a glimpse of his face, started back in consternation.

It was the very face he had seen three or four hours before, looking up at him from the captain's desk.

At first he tried to persuade himself it might be a mere fancy, but the more he examined the man the more sure he became

An actor, a friend of Frank Weston, was recently relating to him the details of a little pastime in which he had been participating. Needless to say, it was the "Great American Game," in which antes, pairs, flushes etc. figure extensively.—yes, and I neglected to mention the principal adjunct,—money.

Weston's friend usually played a very good game, and on the evening in question, he had, throughout the game, most excellent hands dealt to his side of the table, and bet his money accordingly.

One of the participants was a young man whose forefathers, centuries ago, might have been playing games of chance in the cool shadows beneath the walls of Jerusalem. Notwithstanding good hands of all descriptions held by the others, the stacks of blues and reds at his elbow were piling higher and higher.

When Weston's friend, who played the game as scientifically as it could be played, would hold even so good as three kings and ace-high, the young Hebrew would raise him on three aces and king-high, and similar rich hands.

Finally, when nearly all the chips had been brushed over to the lucky winner's side of the table, there was a week's salary of Weston's friend represented in the pile. He leaned his elbows on the table and with chin on his hands, surveyed the winner for a moment, then said in a tone tinged with disgust at his own loss, and cynical resignation at the other fellow's winning:—

"Well, if this isn't the worst! Here I've played a good game, and held good hands, so it's not any lack of science on my part, that I haven't won. It's just your blankety blank, blank Jew luck."

The winner, quick at repartee, replied with a nonchalant shrug of his shoulders:—

"Well, my boy,—that proves that Jew luck is way ahead of Christian Science."

A Hebrew dialect monologist might make something of this one:—

A banquet was given to a wealthy clothing merchant by some friends, who had amassed equal wealth in the various mercantile callings, in which the Jewish element is so fortunate.

The best that money could buy was spread in profusion before the party, and in toasts galore, they were throwing all sorts of congratulatory bouquets at each other. One would say:—

"Ve will drink a bumper to our vrendt Mr. Isaacstein, who has made much money, and built such a fine big house for his fine big family. Ven ve remember him several years ago, selling der modest liddle shoestrapping der street, and look ad him now, ad der headt of a shoestrapping factory, we haf good reason to congratulate him. Here's to Mr. Isaacstein!"

Another was drunk to Mr. Plovinsky, who had begun business crying "old clothes" along the streets, but who now could boast the proprietorship of a big clothing house on Broadway.

After each member of the party had been well toasted, a charitably minded banqueter arose and made the following speech:—

"Mein vrendts, velle ve haf been enoying der bleasurs of der blingits spread all over der tables,—eading of der wlands, and trinkling of der vines, and doasting of vun anoder,—ve haf been vorgetting der poor.

"Now, velle ve been hafting extra top sirloin steaks, schrimpled eks, kalb fiesch a la Hambourger, and filling in mit Laubenheimer und Zinfandel,—der poor,—vat haf dey? Dey haf nuddings,—und I move dat ve gif sumdings to der poor."

A sympathetic "Hear, Hear!" followed this generous sounding speech, and Mr. Einstein rose to respond.

"Our tdaufvul vrendt, Mr. Rosenberg has set vords vich has avakened my sense of obligation to der poor," he said. "Ve all, who haf money, und plenty to eat, und fine houses ofer our hets,—should remember der poor und gif dem sumdings vord hafting."

"Vat shall ve gif dem?" spoke up Mr. Meyer.

"I move,—ve gif dem tthree cheers!" replied Mr. Einstein. Impressively, and with a generous, open wave of his hands. He then resumed his chair amid three rousing cheers, given with benevolent heartiness.

Some years ago, a circus was showing through the South, and a part of the out door entertainment was a balloon ascension. It was the usual performance,—the aeronaut dressed in white tights and spangles, performing on the trapeze, and finally descending by means of a parachute.

An unexpected current of air took the balloon considerable distance away from the fair grounds, and instead of coming back to where he started, the aeronaut alighted in a cotton field where forty or fifty negroes were picking.

When the white apparition was wafted gracefully down among them, they fled in all directions, thinking perhaps that the Judgment Day had arrived. At least, that was the impression of one old white-headed darkey, who was too lame to run, and who tried to appear unconcerned and friendly towards the heavenly visitor. In slow, trembling and conciliatory tones he said:—

"Howdy,—Suh! Glad to see yo' Suh! H-h-how's yo' Pa? I hope his Son is r-right peart dis mawnin', Suh."

When Mr. Stetson was proprietor of the Howard Athenaeum at Boston, he would, with his one good eye, peep through the scenery to watch the effect of the Monday night turns on his audience.

One night, while a man with some poorly trained dogs was doing his turn, he saw in a few moments, that it was not going to be popular. Storming around at the back of the stage, he called the manager, and, with a few choice epithets hurled in the direction of the performer who was doing his best to earn his salary, he demanded how much time it took for the turn.

"Twenty three minutes," was the answer.

"Twenty three hexes!" exclaimed Stetson,—"you take that blankety fool up the alley tomorrow night, and every night of the week, and let him perform his d— fool dogs there for just twenty three minutes. He's engaged for a week, and by gee! he's got to earn his salary,—but not in the presence of my audiences."

Lillian Russell during one of her walks the other day, met a little chap whose small trousers had evidently been made at home. The front and back of them had been cut exactly alike, and for a much broader boy.

They were puffed out in front as far as they puffed at the back, and the small wearer seemed ill at ease in them. Miss Russell stopped for a moment to chat with him and at parting, handed him a nickel, saying:—

"By the way, Sonny, who made your trousers?"

"Me Mudder,—goll durn her!" answered the boy in a most ungrateful tone of voice.

Willard Spenser, from whose clever brain came those successful comic operas, "Little Tycoon," "Princess Bonnie," and "Miss Bob White," is said to have substituted the second "a" in his name for "c," because he did not wish to be identified with Alexander Spencer the music director and composer of songs.

Mr. Spenser is a gentleman of esthetic temperament and refined manners, and, next to his annoyance at being mistaken for A. Spencer, is the sound of an oath.

His habit when rehearsing, is to call his company by the names of the characters in the opera, which they may be assuming.

One day while rehearsing his company in Memphis, his ire, usually held under control, was roused by Mr. Rob't E. Graham (now of the "Florodora" company) the original Gen. Knickerbocker of "Little Tycoon."

Graham insisted on certain little bits of "business," while the composer held other views concerning how he wanted his own opera given. At last, quite out of patience, he exclaimed:—

"Really, I've never before experienced anything like this! General Knickerbocker, I am really very much provoked,—terribly provoked. I can't control myself,—I actually feel like saying 'damnn'—O Heavens, what have I said!—Ladies, you will please pardon me, but I could not help it.—The rehearsal is dismissed."

At another time in Philadelphia, at the Continental Hotel, this same gifted Spenser happened to be among a crowd of newspaper men who were not averse to looking upon the wine when it is red,—or any other color that it happens to be.

Leander Richardson, then of the Dramatic News, was of the party, and after some talk over the evening's performance, Richardson proposed some liquid refreshment, and they began to saunter towards the place where those things are dispensed.

Spenser tried to escape, for he had no liking for that which the bar contains. He failed however, and reluctantly accompanied the party.

Richardson ordered an "Editor's Relief," which proved to be a long, cool drink adorned with little cubes of fruits in assorted colors, and which seemed to accord to him the comfort he expected from its absorption.

Another hard-worked scribe called for a "brain duster," which immediately brightened him up to the extent, that he had strength to call for another.

Then Richardson said:—

"Now, Spenser, what is it?" at the same time accompanying his interrogative invitation with a resounding slap on the shoulder, that jarred the recipient.

"I really don't want anything,—I am not thirsty," was the answer.

"You don't have to be thirsty to drink," said the generous Richardson. "Come on,—be a thoroughbred! What'll you have?"

"Well," said the unwilling musician, "if I must drink, give me a lemonade, and be sure and have plenty of sugar in it."

Per JOSEPHINE GRO.

BELDEN HILL.

The subject of this week's sketch, when in his prime, was not surpassed by any third baseman in the minor league ranks for coolness, steadiness and accurate playing. He was never known to shirk a hit, no matter how fast the ball came at him, and he has handled some hot ones at the third turning point of the diamond. Mr. Hill has gained equally as much renown in his managerial enterprises as he was successful as a player. He was born Aug. 21, 1868, at Kewanee, Ill., and learned to play ball while attending school. After finishing his school days he became a telegraph operator, and followed that business a number of years, spending most of his time at Galesburg, Ill., in the employ of the C. & Q. R. Co. His career as a professional ball player began with the Fort Worth team, of the Texas League, in 1889. During that season he participated in ninety-nine championship contests, ranking second as a third baseman in 1890 he was, at various times, connected with the Washington, Baltimore and Newark teams, of the Atlantic Association, and in that campaign he took part in one hundred and fifteen championship games, ranking well as a batsman and a fielder. He began the season of 1891 with the Davenport Club, of the Illinois-Iowa League, and when that club disbanded he finished the season with the Oshkosh, Wisconsin League team, he participating in thirty-nine championship contests with the latter. In 1892 he was with the Chattanooga Club, of the Southern League, and aided materially in helping its team to win the championship of that league. He followed commercial pursuits during 1893, but returned to baseball in 1894, when he played with the Rock Island Western Association team, and in that season he took part in one hundred and twenty-three championship games, and had a batting percentage of .305. He was a member of the pennant winning team of Lincoln, Neb., also of the Western Association, in 1895. In that campaign he participated in one hundred and fifteen championship contests. In 1896 he went to the Cedar Rapids Western Association team, which was under H. G. (Buck) Ebbright's management. About the middle of that season the latter resigned and Hill was appointed manager of the team, and he gave such entire satisfaction that he has been retained in that position ever since. In that campaign he took part in seventy-six championship games. In 1897, however, was a banner year for him. He not only batted well, having a percentage of .327, and fielded finely, but he succeeded in landing the Western League pennant. During that season he participated in one hundred and twenty championship contests. Once he made four safe hits in a game and six times three. He made two homers, eight triples and thirteen double baggers. In 1898 he continued with the Cedar Rapids until they withdrew from the association, on June 9. In 1899 he did not play, but attended strictly to the management of his two flourishing cigar stores. In 1900 he managed the Des Moines Western League team part of the season, and this year he is playing third base and managing the Cedar Rapids team, in the Indiana, Illinois and Iowa League, and is meeting with such remarkable success that his team has a commanding lead in the pennant race of his organization.

Grace Rentrow Stock Co. was married July 31, at Jackson, Tenn., to Caroline Eldridge, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eldridge, of that city. A reception was given in the evening, and after the night's performance all the members of the company were present.

The Grace Rentrow Co. has just finished a very successful engagement of ten weeks at Highland Park, and is now re-organizing for their road show. Walter Arlin and his newly married wife have signed for the season.

J. A. West and wife (Minnie Pearl) have signed contracts with Geo. D. Walters to originate the characters of Col. Marshall and Martha Dobbin, respectively, in the Southern play, "The Land o' Cotton," by John Crittenden Webb.

"The Lawrence System of Vocal and Physical Expression" is the title of a 32mo. book just published by Edwin Gordon Lawrence. Whose practical stage experience has fitted him to write the work. It is not alone for the actor and dramatic student, but as the author states in his preface, it is designed to aid lawyers, ministers and public speakers in general in their callings. The book is neatly gotten up in 128 pages, bound in red cloth, and will doubtless find ready sale.

"Valjean, the Convict," a romantic melodrama, in four acts, taken from the French of Victor Hugo by Henry Belmar, was given its first American production Aug. 6, at the Grand Opera House, Norristown, Pa., by Ella Fontainebleau and company.

Leon M. Polachek has signed as musical director with Whitney & Knowles' "Quo Vadis" Co., No. 1.

J. G. Stutzmann and Rose Winchester have signed with the Holden Comedy Co. (Western) for the coming season.

Dan Darleigh, star of "Old Si Stebbins," sends THE CLIPPER a contract with Kniskern, and a note from the latter, refusing to live up to the contract. Mr. Darleigh sends these in order to show that Mr. Kniskern was properly in the original roster of the company.

Chas. E. Bloomer left for Chicago to join Frank McGlynn's "In a Woman's Power" Co.

World of Players.

Saturday, Aug. 24, has been selected as the opening date of Al. W. Martin's $30,000 "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Eastern production. This season the company will surpass anything ever attempted before. The production will be complete in every detail and the company a capable one. General Manager Chas. L. Walters deserves great credit for securing several novelties of importance during the summer. The cars were delivered last week by the contractors, and proved to be just what the doctor ordered. They have been pronounced by officials to be the most elaborate and best equipped rolling stock ever turned out for theatrical company. The Martin "Tom" production will require an entire train for its transportation. The route embraces the Eastern cities of size. The roster will be as follows: Chas. L. Walters, general manager; Chas. A. White, general agent; Cliff Coleman, advance agent; Eli Spiro, secretary and treasurer; L. E. Osborn, band master; Chas. Cope, leader of orchestra; W. J. Woods, R. A. Barker, Geo. W. Parks, Taylor Davidson, Jos. Lawrence, Irwin Selden, N. V. Weaver, Eugene Kingsley, Geo. Fitzgerald, Freddie Robins, Jno. Dalley, Wm. Pedin, Mike Goodwin, Frank Mason, Willie Wilson, Claude Vaughn, Samuel De Forest, Claude Lucas, R. O. Rice, S. W. Weel, James McCaffery, Walter Gladden, Dickson and Milton, Frank Lanno, Carra Melbourne, May Woods, Stella Thompson, Baby Gladis, Nellie Sherwood, Mildred Stroas, Bena White, Lucie Violin, Clara Sheldon, Jessie De Voe, Kate Vaughn, Tressa Verey, Bertha West, Clara Luconder, Artie Phillips, Maybelle Endone and Susie Irwin.

The Flora De Voss Co. takes the road Aug. 22, and the company remains much the same. Ruby will head the vaudeville bill, as usual, and she has added a new line to her pleasing repertory of specialties. Mr. Carter will continue to say the funny things, while Mr. Schroder will render his baritone solos. The new repertory of plays will receive the closest attention in setting of new scenery by Dug. Morgan. Mary Coolidge will be known this season as Mary Carey. Roster: J. B. Rotnour, sole owner and manager; Edwin Brink, director; J. D. Morgan, stage manager; Dwight Peppie, agent; Henry Schroder, Chas. B. Carter, leading comedy; Geo. Depitt, Roy Kingston, Morris McGee, Corine Cone, Mary Carey, Ruby Rotnour, Flora De Voss.

Notes from "Madeline of Ft. Reno." The season is booked solid, the company all engaged and the costumes nearly completed. The scenery was delivered at the Long Building the past week, and proved works of art. Especially the setting of Genl. Custer's mansion, which is a masterpiece of scenic art. In this participation in this scene, including Indians and cowboys. Chief White Moon, a genuine Sioux Indian chief, will have charge of the Indians, and will lead the charge to the destruction of the fort. One of the big attractions of this company will be the sensational street features. The cast is excellent.

Winifred Florence, a niece of the late Wm. J. Florence, has been signed by Frank L. Perley for "The Chaperons," in which she will make her professional debut. Miss Florence, it is said, has already attracted attention with her voice, which has had three years' cultivation, under Mme. Papenheim.

Walter Jones has decided to return to the stage, under the management of Frank L. Perley, and will be placed in the new musical comedy, "The Chaperons." He will create the part of the English valet, being cast opposite to little Eva Tanguay, the dancing soubrette. Mr. Jones and Miss Tanguay will constitute a low comedy team that Mr. Perley expects to become one of the features of the Ranken-Whitmark musical piece.

Guy's Novelty Co. Notes: For the first time in four years we layed off one night. The stage was set for "Under Two Flags," and we were ready to open the doors when our tent was struck by a terrible storm which continued until ten o'clock. Mr. Guy ordered a new quarter immediately, as it was impossible to mend our front quarter. No scenery was damaged, and no one hurt. We played Rockport, Ind., to large business and broke all records at Tell City. We go from here to Owensboro, Ky., for fair week. Our band will be engaged at the fair grounds, and we received more letters from our recent ad. than we expected, it being impossible to answer all. Prof. Carleton lost two dogs last week by heat, a St. Bernard and Great Dane, which he valued at one hundred apiece. We engaged five people from our ad. in THE OLD RELIABLE.

Dunbar-Lyall Co. Notes: Business still continues good in these Virginia mountains. We are preparing to open our regular season Sept. 15. Our scenic artist is turning out four complete sets for the coming season. Our repertory will include some of the best plays. J. Hilton Roseleigh is scoring quite a success with his negro songs.

Ed. Foley and Clida Young have signed for "The Coked Hat," under management of E. L. Graves, for the season.

Caro Miller has signed to play leading juvenile with the Bronson Co., and Lulu Espey for juvenile woman.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia. Quite according to schedule five of the local theatres opened their doors to the public on last Saturday evening, and though mid-summer weather prevailed, theatregoers turned out in large force, and each of the houses was well filled.

It cannot be denied that these openings are rather early, and that steady good business results cannot be achieved until nearly another month has elapsed. One more theatre is announced to join the active list on Saturday of this week; all the others will fall in line during the course of the coming three weeks. The parks continue to have things very much their own way despite the opening of the theatrical season; two more weeks remain of the regular Summer season for these resorts, and the others will fall in line during the course of the coming three weeks. The parks continue to have things very much their own way despite the opening of the theatrical season; two more weeks remain of the regular Summer season for these resorts, and the others will fall in line during the course of the coming three weeks.

ADDITIONAL (J. Hard Worrell, manager).—The season at this house had a successful opening on Saturday night last. The offering was the new edition of "The Evil Eye," which Manager Yale has greatly improved for the current season. A list of those engaged in the cast was given last week, and it is only necessary to add that each individual apparently fitted his or her part to perfection. The various ensemble and spectacular features have been admirably arranged, and taken all in all it is a capital evening's entertainment, which receives the unqualified praise of those in attendance.

In the coming tour Managers Yale & Ellis have the assurance of the following force: Owen Ferree, representative; Geo. W. Gallagher, agent; Geo. A. Manchester, lithographer; John A. Guilmette, stage manager; E. Melville Browne, musical director; Helen Garcia, matron; J. A. J. Overpeck, master mechanic; Phil Bruck, assistant mechanic; John E. Coogan, electrician; Henry Walser, transportation; Wm. Heck, properties, and Cereia Ellisons, wardrobe. These accessories proved a very worthy setting for the enjoyable performance of "Sporting Life," which was witnessed by an audience which filled the house. "One of the Bravest" next week.

FOREPAUGH'S THEATRE (Ludella & Geo. F. Fish, managers).—The usual success attended the opening of this house Saturday afternoon and evening, with its popular stock company, the members of which were named in this column week before last. The company worked well together and gave an entirely commendable performance of "Secret Service," which was mounted in complete style. As to the audiences, they completely filled the house and the evening was spent in enthusiasm and cordiality to the stock were all that could be desired. A production of "The Corsican Brothers" is in preparation for the coming week.

KEITH'S (George E. Bogie, resident manager).—The season at this house was added to the phenomenal hot weather business being done at this house, and the end is not yet. Sunday evening of this week Mme. Baril is heard in several solos, and on Wednesday evening Victor Scherzinger, a vocal soloist, will be heard. The attendance continues large and the many features are heavily patronized.

Philip has been engaged by Nixon & Zimmerman for the leading role in "The Hottest Coon in Dixie." The company will be seen at the Eleventh Street Opera House Monday of the coming week with the regular minstrel bill and a burlesque on the loop. ATLANTA.—At the Lyceum (Coley Anderson, manager) the opening of the Palm Garden, Aug. 12, eclipsed any theatrical event seen in this city. Everything was in perfect readiness, and the opening passed off without a hitch. Theodore Martin's Orchestra, of Chicago, has been engaged. The capacity of the garden and theatre was tested, and many were turned away, unable to obtain standing room. In the grand Mabel Casady and chorus won generous applause, while the indoor bill was one of merit. It included: Fox and Fozie, Raymond and Caverly, Scott and Judge, Clayton and Deshon, the Gleasons (John and Bertha), Mansfield and Wilbur, and the vaqueros.

PROSPERITY is the watchword at this resort, and large crowds are pleased at each performance. Week of 12 the burlesques, "Elk of Love" and "The Broadway Swells," in connection with the vaqueros, were well received. The bill was: Gusie Addison, May Deagle, Leonel Carlson, Carrie Scott, Mabel Gordon, Burt Hoseman, Adelaide Walsh, Helen Hall, Evelyn Earle, Fields and Whalen, Billy Myers, Val Trainor and Manager Harry Sefton.

COLUMBIA (H. L. & J. L. De Givie, managers).—This house opens 19, with the Klint-Hearn Company as the attraction.

NOTES.—Gusie Addison continues a favorite at the Imperial. Billy Meyers, a local performer, was given an ovation when he appeared 12 at the Imperial, and his work merited the liberal applause.

DETROIT.—At Whitney's Theatre (E. D. Stale, manager) "Nobody's Claim," Aug. 11-17, attracted large and appreciative audiences. "The Eleventh Hour" 18-24.

WONDERLAND AND DETROIT OPERA HOUSE (James H. Moore, manager).—Aug. 18-24: Margaret Ashton, chanteuse; Edna and Richard Harry Linton and Leila McIntyre, presenting "Chattering Chums," Madame Emmy and her trained dog performers, the Wilson Family, Talbott and Davidson, Tom Mack. Last week marked the first appearance in her home city of Clara Louise Kennedy, of the Morton Trio, who received an ovation from her many friends, who packed the house at each performance.

WENONA BEACH PARK AND CASINO (L. W. Richards, manager). Week of 12 to big business. Harry E. Boyd, Mabel Moray, Mable Remington, the Richman, the Ricklands, Lavender and Tomson, Romulo Bros. 19 and week Cluff Dean and Co. head the bill.

KALAMAZOO.—At the Lake View Casino (Sam Mittenthal, manager) Bennett's All Star Vaudeville Co. opened a week's engagement Aug. 1, and has played to crowded houses, their work meeting with general favor. Manager Mittenthal is negotiating with a good company week 18, which will probably close the season at this resort. The Harlow Minstrels, that were booked for week Aug. 4, canceled their engagement.

FOREPAUGH & SELLERS BROS. CIRCUS comes 23.

CLARK will open at the Park early in September. The Philadelphia Musical Association has written an open letter to the Executive Committee of the Philadelphia Orchestra, in which the methods and actions of the latter body is criticised severely.

PITTSBURGH.—One by one our show houses are taking down their shutters, and soon all will be open for business.

EMPIRE THEATRE (E. J. McCullough, manager).—Prosperity has thus far crowned Manager McCullough's well directed efforts to make this beautiful house a favorite. "A Romance of Coon Hollow" is receiving its first production here and the advance sale for the week is large. Leah Lessal appears in "East Lynne" Aug. 26 and week.

DUQUESNE GARDEN (James W. Conant, manager).—Manager Conant continues to ride on the topmost wave of success, and it is a matter of general regret that the current bill is the last of the season. The closing bill is "Il Trovatore," cast to the full strength of the company, with Payne Clarke singing the part of Manrico.

HARRY WILLIAMS' ACADEMY OF MUSIC (Harry W. Williams, manager).—Large classes have matriculated at Principal Williams' Academy for the current week, and will take up the study of the Topsy Turvy Burlesques. The Hon. Tom Burlesquers last week had both a pleasant and a profitable engagement.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE (Harry Davis, manager).—Everything is ready for the opening of this popular house on Sept. 2. The advance sale for opening week begins Aug. 26.

BIJOU THEATRE (Bob Gilly, manager).—West's Minstrels this week. "Lost River" next week.

DUPRESE THEATRE (Harry W. Williams, manager).—During its period of closure this house has been entirely redecorated in brighter and more attractive colors than it has ever worn before, and Manager Williams announces that it will open Sept. 2, with a strong vaudeville company, headed by Jessie Bartlett Davis.

HARRISBURG.—Business continues at top notch. The coming week will inaugurate what promises to be a successful season.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE (S. Appel, manager).—The season will open at this house Aug. 19, with the Irene Myers Co., who will play a week's engagement. With this organization are a number of Harrisburg favorites, including Spencer C. Charters, of this city. The year will assuredly be the best yet.

The theatre has been greatly improved, and until the weather is cooler, special arrangements have been provided for cooling the interior.

TAXIDOME PARK (Felix M. Davis, manager).—Business continues big, the second appearance of Pincus Oriental Troubadours proving a winner. The Trans Atlantic Vaudeville Stars will be the attraction in the theatre week of 19. An special outside attraction, the Watson Sisters and Juvie De Zamora, acrobats, will give two exhibitions daily.

NOTES.—The Eastern King Company (N. Appel, manager) opened the season in "The Cherry Pickers," at Hanover, Pa., 17. Frank Hamilton playing lead. The company will open a week's engagement at the Holiday Street Theatre, Baltimore, 19. The middle company will open at Norristown, Pa., 20, with Lon Beasley in charge of the leads, and the Western company, Sept. 1, at Lebanon, Pa., with W. R. Todd as leading man.

ELLA MORETTI left 17, to begin rehearsals in New York City with one of the Rice & Barton companies. The Lloyd & Gentler Eclipse Stock continues to do business in the Umberto Valley, and Phoebe Emma Smith, soprano, who was taken ill at Boston, during an engagement several weeks ago, is slowly recovering from an attack of nervous prostration at her home in this city.

ALTOONA.—At the Eleventh Avenue Opera House (L. C. Misher, manager) the painters, frescoers, carpenters and upholsterers have been busy for several weeks, overhauling the house. The entire front woodwork has been painted in mahogany and the interior has been redecorated. The lobby foyer have been newly frescoed, and the chandeliers and railings all repainted, which adds greatly to the appearance of the house. The scenery has also been retouched and some of it repainted. The two floors of the adjoining building have been added and will be fitted up as parlors and toilet rooms for ladies. On the same floor smoking and waiting rooms will also be arranged, so that the house will be fully up to date. The Armstrong Warren Stock Company will give the preliminary opening, week of Aug. 19, and the regular season will open 20, with "When We Were Twenty-one," with George Clark in the leading role. An American Tramp, follows 27, Martin's "The Whirlwind," 31, "The Evil Eye," Sept. 4, Robert B. Mantell, in "Othello," 6, and "When London Sleeps" 7.

FROM OTHER POINTS.

Many Theatre Openings and Excellent Indoor Business Opened the Week Promisingly.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Without a novelty, but with very strong bills, the week opened with a boom. At the Tremont "The Burgomaster" started on its ninth and final week, with a packed house. Important cast changes and souvenir gifts to the ladies (last night being one hundred) were the features of this piece in Boston. The features were: "Gillette's Musical Dogs," symphony players and living pictures pleased two large audiences at Keith's. Operetta Co. in "Forty Winks," and Billy S. Bifford were the features of Music Hall. Business was very large. "The Middleman" was presented by Castle Square Stock, to usual big Monday business. A good house was brought out at the Grand Opera by "Hunting," "Tennessee's Fardner," at the Bowdoin Square and "Coon Hollow" at the Morrison's Grand, attracted a big following of melodrama lovers. The Palace, Lyceum and the Howard opened most auspiciously with big vaudeville and burlesque bills. Summer quietness is a thing of the past at the moment. If last night's patronage is any criterion, Sunday was big at the summer parks, but last night was only fair. Monday has been the off day of the season at these outdoor resorts. Showery weather prevailed, but not heavy enough to prevent theatregoers from turning out.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—The new season was auspiciously begun. "Under Two Flags" reopened at Powers' last night, and was greeted by a good sized and fashionable audience. "Victory's Sunday" business was large. The company was late in arriving, and the performance was delayed thirty minutes. "At Cripple Creek" inaugurated the new season at the Academy to a house sold out Sunday night, and almost as big business last night. "Under Two Flags," which opened the season at Hopkins, was greeted with noisy enthusiasm by large houses Sunday. "Brown's in Town" opened prosperously at the Great Northern. "King Dodo" at the Knickerbocker and "The Explorer" at the Dearborn continued to fair business. "In a Woman's Power" was voted a success by big audiences at Alhambra Sunday and last night. The Bijou began well. Chicago Opera House began week with the best of business of the summer burlesque houses, and others prospered in greater or less degree. Masonic Temple began the week with its usual big business. Summer parks did lighter business than usual Sunday and last night.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—Rain all day greatly injured outdoor business, and the same effect reversed applied to theatre business, which was good all around. "The Evil Eye" had a well filled and delighted house at the Auditorium. "King of the Opioid Ring" at the National and "Sporting Life" at the People's drew splendidly. Patrons for Forepaugh's turned out in full. Vaudeville at Keith's had S. R. O., and the same style of entertainment at the Grand had capital results.

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—Two of the downtown houses are open for their regular winter season, and all of the summer theatres are in full swing. The weather is all that can be desired, and every house had good business at the openings, 18 and 19. The Delmar offers "The Wizard of the Nile" for the first half of the week, and Sunday's audience was immense. The Columbia opened 19, with vaudeville, featuring Prosper Troupe and Jane Courthouse. Havlin's opened 18, playing "The Minister's Son," to a very fair house. The Highlands are doing a big business with vaudeville, Beauz and Belles Octette and "Pony Ballet" being the leading features. O'Brien and Havel and the Kitamura Japs are the headliners at the Suburban and were the favorites with Sunday's big crowd. Mannion Park had a good audience Sunday to witness its change of bill. Louise Dacre and the Donovans are featured. At Eclipse Park the stock presents "Eucher," "At Koerner's the Hanley-Kavold Stock present "Caste," and did well with it. "Sapho" is offered this week at the Cave Maurice Freeman and Nadine Winston are Jean and Fanny, respectively.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 20.—The first theatrical gun of the season was fired by the Bon Ton Burlesquers at the People's. Two great crushes witnessing the opening performances. "The Chimes of Normandy" drew a big crowd to Chester Park. The vaudeville bill suffered a contraction, for Georgia Gardner's pet dog bit her and she will be incapacitated for work for some days. Kennedy Bros. Wild West, at Coney Island, the Lagoon and the Zoo, drew the usual crowds.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 20.—At Electric Park the Travis-Vale Dramatic Co. presented "Strolling Players" to good audience yesterday. The Sunday business at the parks was immense. At Fairmount the Banda Rosa was the attraction, and at Troost Park the pictures of the Passion Play and Stimmerich's Band were the features.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 20.—The Avenue Theatre opened the season 18, presenting as the first attraction Haverly's Minstrels, to a packed house. The Zoo Garden attracted a large crowd Sunday to see the new vaudeville bill. John Robinson's Circus gave two performances 19, to crowded tents.

Vaudeville & Minstrel

MANAGER W. F. RILEY, of Haverly's Madison Minstrels, writes as follows, under date of Aug. 13: "We opened our season at the New Empire Theatre, Pittsburgh, last night to a packed house, and without self-praise, which is never a good recommendation, I may merely mention that every newspaper in Pittsburgh today gave our performance hearty endorsement, and unanimously agreed that the company was the strongest seen here in years. Such praise from the press of Pittsburgh, which is always conservative if indeed not critical, is exceedingly gratifying to us. Mr. Nankerville, encouraged by last season's success, has made earnest efforts to put forward this season a show worthy of the Haverly fame, one that would equal the historical organization of Col. Jack Haverly's palmy days—and Pittsburgh's testimony is that he has succeeded. Mr. George Wilson, who heads the company, scored remarkable personal success, and his reception demonstrated that his popularity is as great as ever. Mr. Wilson has a brand new monologue, as usual, and a medley of popular airs admirably arranged. Dan Allman ably seconded Mr. Wilson's efforts in mirth making, and other capable lieutenants in the line of wholesome humor were: Eddie Mazier, 'Tony' Conley, 'Billy' Pearl, Herman Marion, Ed. Yeager and Perrin Somers. Our interlocutor this season is Chas. H. Wesley, and he makes a graceful and satisfactory middle man, as well as contributing a well-rendered tenor solo. The vocal star of the first part is George Morgan, who arrived from England just in time for the opening week. Mr. Morgan will create a sensation in this country. He is a male alto of phenomenal range, such a voice as has rarely, if ever, been heard in America. For many years Mr. Morgan has been soloist of Moore & Burgess' Minstrels, of London, Eng. Our other vocalists are: Edwin Platt, Joseph Winfred, Benson Bathrick, Maynard Ray and S. J. Nankerville. Of course Mr. Wilson's monologue is the feature of the olio, which also contains such strong acts as: Garden and Somers, musical experts; Masler and Conley, talking comedians; Marion and Pearl, acrobatic comedians, and the Young Brothers, in a novelty act. Claude Menkes is our orchestra leader, and Francis Sutherland, director of a band of twenty-five pieces. The splendid booking we have secured this season is convincing evidence of how high the Haverly show now stands in the estimation of our people. The conclusion of our week in Pittsburgh was to Louisville, Ky. (Avenue Theatre), and then for three days in Cincinnati. Week of Aug. 25 we play Great Northern Theatre, Chicago; week of Sept. 1, at Metropolitan, Minneapolis; week of Sept. 8, at Metropolitan, St. Paul, Minn. After St. Paul we put in a week at the Alhambra, Milwaukee, and then travel by easy stages toward San Francisco and the West."

The widespread rumour that the present season would be the last of Wagnerian opera at the famous theatre at Bayreuth, Germany, which is once a year devoted to a season of that composer's works, is absolutely without foundation.

Paul Cinqvalli is again in London, and is the star single-barrelled turn at the Hippodrome. The principal attraction in still the realistic fox hunt, called "Tally Ho," and during the very warm weather there was always a sign of appreciative delight from the audience when the men and dogs and horses were splashing into the tank which represented the stream.

The illness of Marie May, who is suffering with rheumatic fever, has caused some changes at the Gaiety and Daly's. Her part in "San Toy" at the latter house is now filled by Florence Collingborne, of the former, but Miss May will return to the cast as soon as she recovers.

Stuart Champion has been selected for Charles Hawtrey's part in "The Man from Blankley's," at the Prince of Wales Theatre. The "very hearty send off" which is being organized for Hawtrey on the eve of his departure for New York in September, continues to be rigorously exploited in the papers. Charles Wyndham is to preside at the feast, and the committee includes Arthur Collins, Arthur Bourchier, Lt. Colonel Newnam-Davis, Geo. Edwards, Beerboom Tree and W. S. Bayley. Most of the newspaper paragraphs include the announcement that anyone desiring to be present should communicate with A. Knowles, Drury Lane Theatre.

Fanchon Thompson has sustained an odd loss, the manuscript of the first act of a musical comedy, in which she is to appear in the autumn. The author is Geo. Howells, and he has no copy of the MS. As a rule, the loss of any particular act from the MSS. of this type of modern entertainment would entail but little bother to author or actors, so flimsy are such pieces, and it is to be hoped that the missing MSS. will be recovered, as it is said to be "unusually bright and clever."

Clement Scott's voting contest as to the most popular music hall programme of twenty-two turns which could be arranged for London has resulted in the following section, the votes being cast for the artists in the order named: Dan Leno, Marie Lloyd, Geo. Maurice Hewlett is writing a play for Sarah Bernhardt, in which she will play the part of Mary Queen of Scots. It will be played in Paris as a "translation from the English."

Frank Macnaughton, whose experiment with the Gaiety Palace, Nottingham, as a variety theatre, was not a success, will now manage it as a house for traveling dramatic companies, under the name of the King's Theatre.

South Africa sends some theatrical items of interest. At Cape Town "San Toy" is being presented by B. & F. Wheeler at their Good Hope Theatre, the company, which is sent out by Geo. The W. J. Holloway Co. is doing well on tour with "The Sign of the Cross," "Quo Vadis," "Hamlet," "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The Janet-Waldorf Co. is shortly expected to arrive in South Africa from India. At Johannesburg there is hope that the Empire Variety Hall may be opened some time in August by Edgar Hyman. Bulawayo reports that Witty Watty Walton's Co. has done well for a fortnight's visit in a series of light musical pieces of the "Trip to Chinatown" kind. Cecil Croft, Marie Campbell, Hettie Collins, Bessie Payne, Arthur Southern, Harry Lambert, Rob Tees, Will Collins, Violet Ward, Lottie Ashford and Maud Alexander are in the company.

Billie Barlow has been in Zululand, as well as in the South African towns not closed by the war, and she gave a concert at Eshow, the Zulu capital, which she claims was the first civilized performance ever held there. The claim is disputed by Kenyon Musgrave, now in England, who says "that honorable record is mine, and I cling proudly to its proud possession." In 1898 he and his wife, Barbara Fenn, and a Mr. Hughes gave an entertainment there. The programme seems to have been both ample and comprehensive, including songs, sketches, duologues, "as well as some scenes from 'As You Like It' and 'Macbeth.'" Billie Barlow was assisted at her concert by J. S. Wynne, Mr. Van Raalte, Mr. Ballantine and a grapplephone, and E. Menzies-Stuart was the manager. It can also be recorded that Frank De Jong, and Lewis Joel, of Durban, secured "a large parcel of the King's sherry" at the recent auction in London, and same will be sent to South Africa to tickle the royal palates of their loyal patrons.

Besides the Elks there were Frank Chishman (second tenor) and Zavo and Mlle. Hilda contortionists, who scored a big success. Rosenbocker and his concert band and W. A. NEW YORK CITY.

Review and Comment.—"Another dull week has been added to the record of the Summer season, but fortunately it completes the sum, as the new metropolitan season begins Aug. 19 with the opening of several prominent theatres, although but one new play will be presented. One house, the THIRD AVENUE, is already in the field, it having opened Aug. 10, under the new management of Martin J. Dixon, with "The Limited Mail" as the attraction. The weather last week was of the ideal sort, and business was everywhere satisfactory. The only interesting news item to which the week gave birth was that which bore the information that another new theatre is to be added to this city's already crowded list. According to announcement the house will be erected and managed by W. E. Keogh, and will be located at Lexington Avenue and One Hundred and Seventh Street. It will have a seating capacity of 3,200, and it is hoped that it will be completed by Jan. 1. Popular attractions at popular prices will be the policy of the management. The property has a frontage of 100 feet on the avenue and extends 200 feet upon the side street. The stage will be 100 feet wide by 40 feet deep, and the proscenium opening will be 40x75. No name for the house has yet been selected. The continued attractions for the week ending Aug. 17 were: "Florodora" at the CARLISLE, Francis Wilson, in "The Strollers," at the KNEEBUCKER, and the stock company, with interlarded vaudeville features, at PROCTOR'S FIFTH AVENUE. At MANHATTAN BEACH the Castle Square Opera Co. finished its second and last week with "Pinaflore" as its offering. Sousa's Band continued its afternoon concerts, and Pat's "War in China" enjoyed a further season of prosperity. Vaudeville held sway at BRIGHTON BEACH MUSIC HALL and at the CARLISLE, DIEMLING's and MORRISON's at ROCKAWAY BEACH, while "The Pan-American Girl" remained a favorite at BERGEN BEACH. Variety entertainment was furnished at TONY PASTOR's, KEITH'S UNION SQUARE, CHEERY BLOSSOM GROVE, HAMMERSTEIN'S PARADISE GARDENS, the ATLANTIC GARDEN, the LION PALACE ROOF GARDEN and on the steamer GRAND REPUBLIC.

The Empire Theatre opens on Sept. 2. The event will be interesting, as the tenth season of the theatre will begin. John Drew, who opens the house, will also begin his tenth season as a star under Charles Frohman's management. Mr. Drew is to have for his play this season B. Marshall's new comedy, "Second in Command," which ran all last season at the Haymarket Theatre, London, Eng., and which is to be presented there all during the coming season. Ida Conquest remains the leading lady of Mr. Drew's company, the other members of which are: Guy Standing, who has been loaned from the Empire Theatre Company; Oswald Yorke, Lionel Barrymore, F. E. Lamb, S. Hassard Short, Robert Schable, G. A. Harcourt, Lewis Baker, Percy Smith, Robert Mackaye, Ida Vernon, Carrie Keeler and others.

Phillips's Germania Theatre.—Adolf Phillip, the well known actor, actor and manager, will open his season at this theatre with his latest play, "In the Land of the Free." "The Corner Grocer of Ave. A" and "The Sign of the Cross" are the best known of Mr. Phillip's successes, but his latest play is said to be rather more ambitious than the others, and will be produced by an excellent cast and with elaborate scenery. Manager Phillip will head his own company, and will also introduce the European season of his place, which is known in France as "Cabaret Parisienne," and in Germany as "Das Ueberbrett." The orchestra will be composed of twenty musicians.

CHARLES FROHMAN has decided to postpone for several days the opening of the Criterion Theatre with William Faversham, in "A Royal Rival." Repairs which are now going on in the theatre make this postponement necessary.

DANIEL FROHMAN announces that the opening dates of his season are as follows: E. H. Sothern's appearance at the Garden Theatre, in "Richard Loveless," on Monday, Sept. 9; Bertha Gailand, in A. E. Lancaster's "The Forest Lovers," at the Lyceum, on Tuesday, Sept. 10, and "The Messenger Boy," at Daly's, on Monday, Sept. 16.

THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE will begin its season Aug. 24, and will then present the musical comedy, "A Runaway Girl."

THE GREENWALL THEATRICAL CIRCUIT Co. has completed its stock organization for the coming season at the American Theatre. The leading female roles will be taken by Jessaline Rogers, and the leading male roles by James E. Wilson. Several of the popular leading people of last season have been re-engaged. The new members will be Lillian Beyer, Frank E. Jamison, Robert Elliott, Victor Moore and Arthur Brandland.

POPULAR PRICES and all seats reserved will prevail during the six weeks' season of grand opera in English to be given by the Castle Square Company at the Broadway Theatre, beginning Sept. 16. The scale of prices adopted is as follows: First lower box, $1; first balcony 50 and 75 cents; second balcony, 25 cents, and general admission 50 cents. At the Wednesday matinee the entire lower floor will be reserved at 50 cents, and both balconies at 25 cents.

Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre (J. Austin Fynes, general manager).—Week of Aug. 19 opened with "Young Mrs. Winthrop" at the head of the bill. It is a four act play, by Bronson Howard, the story of which is told in the following lines from Tennessee:

"We fell out, my wife and I,
We loved and loved not—why—
And kiss'd again with tears—
For when we came where lies the child
We lost in other years,
There above the little grave,
Oh there above the little grave,
We kissed and kissed and kissed,
The play was pretty staged, and the acting superior to any yet presented by the stock companies. Florence Reed achieved the success of the evening as the vivacious Mrs. Dick Chetwynd. Whether it was the charm of her personality, the recollections associated with her late beloved father, her handsome gowns or the fact that she had all the comedy lines in the play she won the hearts of the audience on her first entrance and held her sway in every scene in which she appeared. Clara Dickey, the blind girl, is deserving of praise for the faithful portrayal of a rather difficult role. The following is the cast in full: Douglass Winthrop, Walter R. Seymour; Buxton Scott, Chas. M. Seay; Herbert, Francis Justice; Doctor Melham, Duncan Harris; John, Chas. W. Wallace; Constance, Winthrop, Adelaide Klein; Mrs. Dick Chetwynd, Florence Reed; Mrs. Winthrop, Eva Vincent; Edith, Clara Dickey. The vaudeville features were: Harry Furst, Hebrew impersonator; Ella Williams,coon songs; Harry Brown, impersonator; Koen, juggler, and the kalatechnoscope. Next week, "Moths."

Academy of Music (Gilmore & Tompkins, managers).—Augustus Thomas' great play, "Arizona," was produced Aug. 19, with lavish spectacular investiture by Kirke La Shelle and Fred R. Hamilton, the house being on that date reopened for the regular season, with an audience in attendance which, in size and enthusiasm, was nothing short of prodigious. The opportunities which the Academy's roomy stage furnishes for elaboration of stage settings were effectively embraced. The first scene, with its great courtyard and pretty background, aroused enthusiasm at the outset of the performance, and these evidences of approval were continued at frequent intervals throughout the evening. The most notable scene, the dash of the troopers across the stage and the thrilling incidents of every one of the four acts being unstintingly praised. Olive May made a very charming Bonita, Frazer Coulter did most effective work as Lieutenant Dunstan Farum, proved a well sustained characterization. J. W. Cope made a bluff and lovable Henry Canby, and the vaquero of Edgar Selwyn was a brilliant piece of work. Wm. O. Hazeltine was excellent, while the others of the cast made impressions commensurate with their opportunities. This play is in every way adapted for spectacular environment, and so thoroughly has every attention to detail been looked after, both in mounting and in enacting the work, that the unusual patronage bestowed upon it the opening night should be, and no doubt it will be, continued for a very long time. The cast: Henry Canby, J. W. Cope; Col. Bonham, Frazer Coulter; Sam Wagoner, Albert Von Stottom; Hector Dion; Ironsides, Robt. A. McKlurg; Nat Ling, Robt. W. Smiley; Phil Scott, Nat Leffingwell; Tooley Rucker, Ned Curtis; Hop Toy, Jas. J. Flannagan; Ah Sin, Walter Schrode; Weary Waggles, Fred A. Pelot; Sharker, Howard Mori; Pantomime, Emily Raymond; Harry Peck, J. C. Kline; Chief Morgan, Jack Williams; Yum Foy, J. C. Cline; Li Fung Wang, C. C. Craig; Police Inspector, Joe Schrode; Red Leary, Sam Wells; Jack Tar, E. S. Kenyon; Chinese Highlanders, Sam, Chas. Cline; Sam, Sparkle, Edwin; Dady Peck, Lizzie Mulvey; Maggie Peck, Maza Molleaux; Belle Macey, Stella Adams; Georgette, Genevieve Kane. They gave a smooth performance of this popular play. The Schrode Bros., acrobats, song and drill; Edwina, comedy; Ned Curtis, negro specialties; Pelot, juggler, and Lizzie Mulvey, singing and dancing, were added attractions. Mr. Dixon, the new manager of this house, will introduce Gus Kuntin, the pugilist, as an actor during the holidays. The new play called "The Man of Iron," now being written by Scott Marble. Next week, "A Stranger in a Strange Land."

Pastor's Theatre (Tony Pastor, manager).—A most attractive bill and weather conditions which made indoor entertainment the only recreation for the amusement seeker, resulted in this house being packed to the last inch night of Aug. 19. Tony Pastor appeared, beginning his second week as an active participant in stage presentation at his house, and he sang four songs to most emphatically expressed approval. Edward M. Favor and Edith Sinclair, in "The McGuiness," were greeted cordially, their act frequently being interrupted by applause, while the Four Musical Baboons, undoubtedly potent additions to the bill, their stirring finish bringing a veritable hurricane of plaudits. Belle Stewart had her audience with her every minute, and Joe Roberts, Leonard Hayes and Lilian Roberts, in "The Infamous," made a telling impression. Weston and Allen made a hit most emphatic. This team has some telling material and they work with a vim that carried the act to great success. Marie Bernard rendered comic songs very pleasingly. The Sharplins, Gus and Mattie, presented a capable comedy musical act, which made a gratifying impression; Humes and Lewis' neat act pleased, and Haight and Dean, the Brunneck Sisters, and Lyons, the comedy juggler, completed unparagonably the list of entertainers. The vitagrap holds over.

Garlick Theatre (Charles Frohman, manager).—In its new home, "Are You a Mason?" the theatre gave by Leo Dietrichstein, bids fair to have many merry days, judging by the hearty reception recorded to the opening house warning on Aug. 19. Although only four weeks have been allowed for its New York stay, there is no doubt it could run a much longer period, permitted to remain. The cast, as far as the male portion is concerned, is the same as that which appeared at Wallack's last season, excepting Arnold Daly, whose place is taken by George Lane. May Robinson's part is filled by Gertrude Whitney. The following is the full cast as at present: George Fisher, Leo Dietrichstein; Frank Perry, John C. Rice; Amos Bloodgood, Thos. A. Wise; John Halton, Geo. Richards; Hamilton Travers, Oscar Dane; Ernest Morrison, Chas. Halton; Pollockman, Chas. Green; Mrs. Caroline Bloodgood, Gertrude Whitney; Eva (Mrs. Perry), Esther Tittell; Annie, Hazel Chappel; Lulu, Grace Haddell; Mrs. Halton, Amy Miller; Lottie, Sally Cohen; Fanchon Charnitz, Maude Travers.

Kutcher Theatre (Al Hayman, manager).—Francis Wilson, in "The Strollers," entered on Aug. 19 upon the ninth week of a prosperous engagement.

Proctor's Theatre (J. Austin Fynes, general manager).—After a period of dark, new extending theatrical weeks this house reopened Saturday, Aug. 17, with the "F. F. Proctor Stock Co." as the attraction. The first offering was "Gringoire," a one act drama. It was thus cast: Louis XI, Becton Radford; Gringoire, Robert Deshon; Simon, Frank Melville; Made, Miss Burroughs. The main piece was "A Woman's Won't," made popular in former years at Daly's Theatre. Arthur Buchanan, as Harry Hartford; Emma Butler, as Jessy Hartford; F. M. Kendrick, as Mr. Howard; Made, as Mrs. Howard; Harry, as Taylor; as James, and Jane Chamberlain, as Lucy. All did creditable work. Paley's kalatechnoscope and views of travel were displayed between the acts and were in favor.

Keefe's Theatre (E. F. Albee, general manager).—They could have filled another house with the people who were turned away from here Aug. 19, and within doors row upon row of standees were early on hand. Willard Simms and Almee Angeles topped the bill, giving a "Toughie" sketch. "Flinder's Furnished Flats," which their efforts brought to a high degree of entertainment. Geo. Felix and Lydia Barry had the audience convulsed with laughter during the major portion of their time on stage. The sketch in "The ventriloquist comedy" offered a neat and effective act, winning thereby a success most emphatic. Russell and Buckley's act was plainly to the audience's liking, and deservedly so, too, and Casey and La Clair gave a very good view of Irish character in a sketch called "Teutonic Life," their impersonations being well sustained and admirably conceived. Bush and Gordon duplicated a recent down town hit: John Le Clair's very clever juggling specialty held close attention and received a full round of applause; Jones and Sutton, a capable colored team, made a good impression; Frank and Gladden's great dancing was frequently greeted with prolonged and hearty applause; Clark and Temple offered a telling sketch in an interesting manner, and Margaret Scott was pleasing in her songs. The stereoscopic continues, as does the biograph, which has another lengthy and absorbingly interesting list of pictures on view.

Paradise Gardens (Oscar Hammerstein, manager).—Excellent business continues here. The bill week of Aug. 19 included: Newell and Shillette, horizontal bar performers; Stuart, the "male Patti"; the Karses, in a musical act; the Parros Brothers, head to head balancers; Traver and Herold, in their novel act, entitled "The Artist and the Rhapsicker"; Johnson and Dean, colored comedy duo; Goleman's trained dogs (a new number); the Three Joscaryns, comedy acrobats; Eleanor Falk, ballet and chorography; the Sunnyside South Sea Islanders, mind reading act; Todd Judge Family of acrobats, Sparrow, juggler; the Four Ferals, whitewind dancers, and Satsuma, equilibrist.

Atlantic Garden (W. Kramer's Sons, managers).—The Meeker Baker Trio, acrobatic comedians; Charles Robinson, character impersonator; the Marinellas, in music and balancing work; May Ward, vocal comedienne; Mooney and Holbein, in a musical and acrobatic novelty act; Vera, the trapeze performer, and the Elite Lady Orchestra, are the attractions for this week.

Huber's Museum (John H. Anderson, manager).—The usual large crowds attended this house Aug. 19. The bill for the current week includes many novelties, and the curio hall and a large double vaudeville bill in the theatre. The following performers appeared: Simpson and Pitman, Vernon and Kennedy, the St. Alvas, Chas. Begney, Wayne and Lamar, the White Clouds, Fred (Robert) Deane, and the South Sea Islanders, Kitty Houston and Mme. Olo.

Casino (Sire Prothers, managers).—"Florodora" is still in favor and is doing well notwithstanding the fact that on Aug. 19 it began the forth-first week of its run.

Edwards Theatre (J. C. Edwards, manager).—"The Merman" was repeated Aug. 19 with "The Merman" Morit. A play by Howard Hall and Madeline Morit. The piece, which on that date received its first New York production, will be reviewed in our issue of next week.

HEINRICH CONRAD, of the Irving Place Theatre, has engaged for two years Helene Odillon, who acted last Spring as the star of the Irving Place Theatre. She is to act under his management in the country and Berlin, and will remain a member of the company at the Deutsches Volks Theatre, in Vienna, for three months every year. She is to act here this season and the following year.

Cleveland.—Already the signs around the various opera houses indicate the early approach of the season of 1901-2, and very shortly all the houses will be open. GARY'S THEATRE (Chas. La Marche, manager).—"Amelia Mora," the new musical comedy, written by Max Faelkenheuer, the book by the late Gus Heege, was presented week of Aug. 12, and while, of course, it needs more or less pruning and smoothing, it is generally conceded to be a first rate success. The music is tuneful and inspiring and at times heavy enough to smack of something better than light opera; in fact, the music is the better half of the production. The book, however, is unique and the Swedish part of Ole Johnson very cleverly. Eleanor Kent acted and sang the title role very commendably. The other parts were well distributed. The piece will be put upon the road by Chas. La Marche, who conducted the enterprise. "The Trovatore" will be seen week of 19. Miss Kent, leaving the company to go East to rehearse with the "Foxy Quiller" Co., in which she sings Leonora, will be succeeded by Mlle. Fatmah Dlard.

HARRY E. KNOWLTON, press agent, writes: "Everything seems to favor Walter L. Main's New Fashion Park. Since at least the weather seems to be made to order, while the phenomenal big business has not diminished a particle. With the exception of a few horses which are recovering from a slight attack of epezooidic, the people, the animals and the stock are enjoying the best of health. The show is in the hands of a superintendent, however, is still on the rough, but is reported on the high road to recovery. He will report for duty soon. Four large cars of cages have been added to the menagerie. Part of the consignment of animals were recently received from the Hagenbeck, while Wm. Bartles' emporium was entirely depopulated in order to fill the balance of the new cages. This department, with its baby emu, baby monkeys, baby elephant and the four baby cub lions, which were born May 30, now decidedly popular with the visitors. Reports from Mr. Main's extensive new Winter quarters at Geneva, O., state that work is progressing rapidly. An enjoyable feature of the Long Island tour was the entertainment of unusually large number of professional people. The veteran showman, John B. Boris, took the saddest and lengthened an intended one day's visit into one week's trip, and seemed to enjoy it immensely. At Flushing, L. I., a large party, most of whom are spending the Summer at Elmhurst, attended a banquet and dance at the home of Fred Hallen and his popular wife, Mollie Fuller. Among the prominent professionals were Tony Pastor and wife, Edgar Smith and wife, Donald Burns, Harry Kelly and wife, M. R. Cunley, John P. Kelly and wife, Leonard Sykes, George J. Johnson and family, Miss Chester, Mrs. Walters, Geo. Walters, Frank Kelly, Sam Devere and wife, Sam Collins and wife, and Master Sam Rosenbaum. The Todd Judge Trio were interested spectators at Flushing, and also paid a flying visit to his brother, Reno McTree, last week. Col. Harrison paid a two day's visit to the show last week."

Stock consists of eighteen head of ring horses, fifteen saddle horses, ten, three bears, one elk, two spotted horned sheep, one monkey and one dromedary.

JOHN SHIELDS writes: "I have been sojourning during the Summer at Baker's Ranch, near the foot hills of the Rockies and about six miles from Loveland, with occasional trips up into the mountains, and fishing. The weather has been hot down in the valley, but when one looks at the snow capped mountains he has a feeling akin to a friend of mine who went to see 'Way Down East' and put on his overcoat during the snowstorm scene. He only see THE OLD RELIABLE when he can get to town and pay the news butcher on the train 25 cents to bring me one from Denver. Gentry's Dog and Pony Show and Burt & Bowers' Minstrels have been through this section of the staked plain at Loveland the other night, and well he might, for his tent was packed from side wall to side wall. This section will be good for attractions this season. Crops are good—they always are, because of irrigation."

NOTES FROM MOTTER, MACK & CAMPBELL'S CIRCUS.—Since our opening we have been doing an excellent business, notwithstanding the poor weather and bitter opposition. Since we entered this section of Ohio ring bark houses have been the rule. We carry twenty-one people, band and orchestra. Everyone is happy and contented. The roster is as follows: Perry Motter, manager; Nello J. Campbell, business manager; John McAllister, general agent; Bee Motter, treasurer; Prof. Melville Hayes, bandmaster; Clinton Jones, equestrian director; the Motter Trio, revolving ladder, bounding rope, flying traps and rings; Mae Hessing, strong woman; Mack and Campbell, triple bars, tumbling and contortion; Harry Miller, single traps, head, hand and pedestal balancing; Lena Orland, trained dogs, ponies and pigs; Johnnie Mack, singing and talking clown; Baby Mabel, rag-time dancing and melodies.

NOTES FROM RENO'S ALLIED SHOWS. Still touring Southern Illinois, to the capacity of the big tent. Business still keeps up to the top notch and no opposition. We are in the drought district, and crops are badly burned, having passed several large fields of oats which were only about a foot high and burned brown. Corn is a complete failure. All our performers have felt the heat more or less, and we are like the natives, almost playing for rain. We are justly proud of our band, as we feature it, and they make good. Gene Stevens, leader; Bob Mackosky, clarinet; Chas. Terry, second cornet; Clarence Burrows, tuba; Sam Daniels, slide trombone; Louis Sims, baritone; Harry Manser, alto; Duke Warren, snare drummer; Arthur Humiston does all he can to keep the audience in a good humor, and he is very successful. Our roster of performers is the same as when we started out.

CHAS. G. COLLING, a bill poster, died Aug. 4, at Waco, Tex. He was about forty-eight years old, and had been during the Winter and Spring of 1900 with the Bryan Bill Posting Co., at Toledo, O., and joined the advertisement of Sparks Circus, Car No. 1, at Perryburg, O., June 30, 1900. At the time of his death he was with the Waco Bill Posting Co., at Waco, Tex.

JERRY D. DASHINGTON writes: "We had to leave the circus July 27 on account of illness—typhoid fever. Master Willie has been very low since July 27, but we are gaining a little now."

B. D. COLVIN shipped a large number of people, as well as horses and ponies, to Bremen, Germany, for the Barnum & Bailey Show, Aug. 20.

WM. AND MILLE, left the J. C. Banks Circus and will return home in Buffalo, N. Y. BURKHART returned from the Buckskin Bill Wild West Show and joined the Sig. Sawtelle Circus Aug. 6, at Barre, Mass., for the balance of the season.

NOTES FROM CAPT. W. D. AMENT'S BIG CIRCUS SHOW: We were obliged to suddenly close the season Aug. 14, as Capt. Ament received a telegram that his little boy was dying. The little fellow has been sick all season with rheumatism of the heart and Mrs. Ament was obliged to leave the show two months ago to care for him. As she has been treasurer of the show for eight years the extra work and worry has nearly broken Capt. Ament down. He has decided to retire from the circus field and sell the entire show. He will organize a small family show this fall, as soon as circumstances will permit, and play fair and square.

THE COOPER & CO. SHOW closed in Memphis, Tenn., after a tour of sixteen months. They have been retitting the show while resting, and have added two new cars—a sleeper and dining car. The company is reorganizing, and will come to Memphis Sept. 2. The show will be much larger than heretofore, having added many new attractions. It has always been a favorite in the South, and will travel exclusively in the Southern States.

L. C. GILLETTE is spending his vacation at Lapeer, Mich.

NEW JERSEY.

Atlantic City.—At the Academy of Music, Jos. Fralinger, manager, "Foxy Grandpa" closed a two weeks' engagement Aug. 17, and from the crowds that filled the house at every performance, its stay might have been prolonged for many more weeks with a continuance of the same kind of success. When the hundred electric lights were turned on they showed the alterations to great advantage. An immense electric sign has been installed on the front of the building. New scenery has just arrived. There have been but few changes in Manager Simmonds staff this year. James Gamble has joined Corne Payton's Co. Clarence Drake will succeed him as lithographer, with Stephen Connolly as assistant. The increased trolley service to all parts of the country has made the theatre business 75 per cent. better, while the increased manufacturing interests in and about Elizabeth have made an increased theatre patronage. TENNESSEE.

Memphis.—At the New Lyceum Theatre (Frank Gray, manager) "Mikado," by the Boston Lyric Opera Co., Aug. 8-10, was well attended. As usual, the S. R. O. sign was out before the matinee performance. The Three Little Maids, Misses Baker, Langdon and Howard, were a success. Jack Henderson, as the Mikado, was all that could be desired. "J. J. Trotatore" drew crowded houses 12-14. Miss Baker, as Leonora, and Tom Givens, as Maurice, were satisfactory. The surprise of the performance, however, was Hattie Sims, who for the first time appeared in a prominent part. As Azucena she made a decided hit and received several curtain calls. Marion Langdon was suddenly called to New York to attend the funeral of her brother, "Fra Diavolo" will be given 19-21, "Amorita" 22-24.

HATTIE WAGNERFUHRER, the wife of Jacob Hall, passed away July 20, at her home, 796 Tilden Ave., Utica, N. Y. She was the youngest of the Wagnerfuhrer Sisters, and had been in the profession six years. Besides her husband and son, she leaves a mother and one sister, Martha Wagnerfuhrer, the wife of Dennis Gallagher, the wrestler. She was twenty years old.

CHARLES G. SULLIVAN, son of the late Charles Sullivan, Irish comedian, died of heart failure, at Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 14. He was well known throughout Europe, having started under the management of J. W. Whitbread, at the age of sixteen years, in Boucault's plays. He came to this country under the management of Wm. Calder, later playing with Dan McCarthy and with Townsend Walsh, in "Hors of Kilkenny." Six years ago he married Madge Hamilton. After a foreign tour, he managed his own company, featuring his wife, and was later with the Van Dyke & Eaton Co. His last engagement was as manager of the Evelyn Ashley Co. He was buried from his home, 371 Union Street, Brooklyn. Interment at Holy Cross Cemetery.

GEORGE TAKLEBERRY, a ticket taker formerly in the employ of the Sautelle Circus, was shot and instantly killed by Joseph C. Banks, manager of the show, at the circus grounds in Saratoga, N. Y., on Aug. 10. A quarrel resulted in the tragedy, and some of those who witnessed the shooting stated that Takleberry drew his revolver, and that Banks wrenched it from his hands and then shot him.

WILLIAM JOHNSON, an old time minstrel performer, died of kidney trouble in the City Hospital, Newark, N. J., on Aug. 13. He was about seventy-two years of age, and had been living in retirement for several years. His last professional appearance was with H. Henry's Minstrels. Interment was in Fairmount Cemetery.

EDMOND AUDRAN, the well known comic opera composer, died Aug. 18, in Paris, Fr. He was born April 11, 1842, at Marseilles, the son of Marius Audran, a French tenor singer of considerable reputation. At the age of eleven years Edmond went to the Niedermeyer School to study music. In 1859, he won a first prize in composition and went back to his father's home at Marseilles to become choir master of St. Joseph's Church. His early operas, "L'Ourse de Pascha" (1862), "La Chereuse d'Esprit" (1864), "La Nivernaise" (1866) and "La Petit Concert" (1868), were failures. He composed a funeral march for Meyerbeer, played at the memorial ceremony of his death, held in Marseilles and it was through a religious composition that the future composer of the most characteristically French operetta was to make himself known first in Paris. A mass of his song first at Marseilles in 1873, and later at the Church of St. Eustache in Paris, proved that his composer was a musician of unusual talent. He then composed several religious numbers and an oratorio called "L'Esulante," which was sung at the Salle Hertz in 1870.

It was shortly after this that the composer gave to the world the first of his successful comic operas. This was "Le Grand Mogol," sung at Marseilles in 1877, and for a long time popular in Paris. An act opera followed, called "La Sainte Valentine," and in 1879 came "Olivette." This was first produced at the Bouffes Parisiennes, and at the same theatre, in December, 1880, "The Mass" was sung for the first time. It was a great success as its predecessor, and with these two works the fame of the composer reached its height. They were promptly brought

The Belmont Team's Tour.

The team representing the Belmont Club, of Philadelphia, played four games recently at Halifax, N. S., two of which were won, while one was lost and one left unfinished. The opening contest was with twelve of the Wanderers Club, of that city, Aug. 5, when the visitors won by an innings and 34 runs, scoring 135 to their opponents' totals of 39 and 62. This result was due to very effective bowling by B. King and W. Graham, who were unchanged in both innings, the former taking eleven wickets for 41 runs and the latter capturing eleven wickets at the cost of 40 runs. C. P. Hurditch made 66 for the Belmont team. The Wanderers won the return game on the following day by a score of 115 to 104, the totals of the first inning. This contest was arranged to fill in the vacant day caused by the unexpected brevity of the first game. W. A. Henry, with 50, and C. P. Hurditch, with 47, were the highest scorers for their respective teams. The chief contributors to the Belmont team's totals were J. B. King, with 36 and 47, and C. P. Hurditch, with 34 and 28. J. B. King also distinguished himself in bowling, taking five wickets for 57 runs in first inning, and eleven wickets for 40 runs in the second inning. The members of the Belmont team, returning from their trip to Nova Scotia, were passengers on the steamship Halifax, which struck a rock at the entrance to Boston Harbor early on the morning of Aug. 12, and an hour later was beached in a sinking condition.
